Gen. Bradley Says U. S. May Have To Cut Down On Army

CHICAGO — (P)—Gen. Omar Bradley said today the United States may have to drop its theory of a balanced army, navy and air force to meet the defense needs of the North Atlantic area.

The chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff indicated that the army might come off third best under such an arrangement. He also observed that by placing American defense plans second to those of the whole western world "a small bit of sovereignty is relinquished."

Negro Bombed In Birmingham

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (P)—The future home of a Negro dentist who asked prospective white neighbors about living near them—and found some unopposed—was damaged by a series of explosions last night.

The violent blasts shattered the unoccupied residence-office of Dr. J. A. Boykin and his schoolteacher wife. They had expected to move in about May 1. Dr. Boykin is practicing now at Eufaula, Ala.

The nine-room brick house is at the corner of a Negro district, facing three white homes.

Mrs. Boykin told officers the lot on which the dwelling is located was purchased from the city of Birmingham. She said it had been zoned for Negro residences last October.

Detectives J. R. Davis and J. W. Henson said three violent explosions ripped walls and floors of the home and shook a wide surrounding area.

The blasts came at one-minute intervals, apparently timed by fuses, the detectives said.

The home is about five blocks from the North Smithfield district, where a series of bombings occurred last year. Trouble started in North Smithfield when Negroes began moving into a section already occupied by white persons.

Shorn Wife Demands Prison For Husband

DOWNEY, Calif. — (P)—He'll have no fury like a woman shorn, and Edward Lee Bruce, 26-year-old drapery hanger who gave his wife a crew haircut, realizes it now.

Bruce pleaded guilty in court yesterday to abbreviating the long, chestnut tresses of his wife, Rosalie, 22, "so she wouldn't run around with other men." The charge is assault and battery, carrying a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine.

Jinxed Theater Recalls Death Of Abe Lincoln

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON — (P)—Some buildings, like some people, seem destined for tragedy.

Certainly Ford's theatre, in downtown Washington, has had its share of troubles.

Here, 35 years ago tonight, a fanatic drew his Derringer and fired the ball that laid low Abraham Lincoln.

The next morning, April 15, 1865, Lincoln died.

The Lincoln story, of course, is well known. Not so well known is the story of the theater where he was shot.

Reopened In 1863

An old theater had been destroyed by fire, and the new Ford's—one of the fanciest theaters in the country—opened on Aug. 27, 1863. Seating 1,700, it attracted the best actors, including the young and highly successful ($25,000 a year) John Wilkes Booth.

The Lincolns and their guests, Miss Clara Harris and Maj. Henry Reed Rathbone, went to the theatre to see "Our American Cousin" starring Laura Keene.

During the third act, Booth, who was not a member of the cast that night, crept along the hallway. He entered the presidential box, shot Lincoln in the head, jumped to the stage and escaped.

Tragedy Comes Again

Never again was a play put on at Ford's. The shot that killed Lincoln killed the theatre too.

When Ford attempted to reopen his theatre, in July, such a howl went up the idea was abandoned. The government took it over and kept open supply lines linking the western allies.

These plans, he said, "need not change" the balance or cost of U. S. military forces this year.

But thereafter, he added, the United States must carefully consider "what our friends can best contribute before we decide what the American dollar should buy for the collective defense."

Then tragedy struck again. On June 9, 1893, three floors collapsed, killing 22 clerks and injuring 63 others.

In 1932, Ford's was renovated. Now it—and the house across the street where Lincoln died—are a museum.

Sweet, Gentle Spring Acting Like Winter

By the Associated Press

It's mid-April and spring, sweet, gentle, spring, is three weeks old, and acting like old man winter.

The season of light showers, soft winds, budding trees and flowers and green grass is "way off" the climatic beam over many parts of the country.

In the midwest, it might as well be winter. The eastern states don't feel too hot about their brand of spring weather, either. There's too much zing and sting in the air, much like the winter season varies.

There's not much, if any, spring fever in the belt hit by the unseasonable cold—from the northern plains, across the Great Lakes region and into the middle and North Atlantic region. Some of the chilly air has seeped into southern states, too.

Temperatures are far off normal. Snow is on the ground in many areas. Furnace fires are getting the same back-breaking attention as in midwinter. Kids are following the calendar and playing baseball dressed like skiers. Snowplows remained necessary equipment in the Dakotas and sections of New England and Upper Michigan.

Michigan Democrats Hear Veep For $25

DETROIT—(P)—Michigan Democrats—more than 2,000 strong and at $25-a-plate—will gather at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner here tonight to hear Vice President Barkley speak.

Barkley is scheduled to arrive by plane shortly before the banquet. He will be met by Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Miss Hsieh plans to smuggle her fifth column into Formosa. The Reds have promised to take Formosa this year. But its isolated position, 90 miles from the mainland, makes invasion a tough job. A fifth column is an alternate—and probably easier way.

Acting directly under Red leader Mao Tse-tung's orders, she has recruited a fifth column of more than 2,000 men. Most are Formosa natives who fought with Nationalist armies and surrendered to the Reds.

Government At Fault In Texas City Blast Which Took 500 Lives

HOUSTON—(P)—A federal judge has ruled the U. S. government was at fault in the 1947 Texas city disaster which took more than 500 lives.

Plastiras, who has been asked by King Paul to form a new government, is leader of the mildly leftist national progressive union. The party ran third in the recent national elections. Venizelos had depended on right wing support to stay in power. Plastiras is expected to broaden the base of support as suggested by the U. S. ambassador.

Admiral Looks At Ice

CHEBOYGAN—(P)—After spending a day aboard the ice-breaker Mackinaw watching operations in the Straits of Mackinac, Rear Admiral A. C. Richmond of the U. S. Coast Guard returned Thursday by plane to Washington with a staff of five officers.

Apple Scab Makes Early Appearance

WASHINGTON—Apple scab appeared in Delaware and Illinois this year at the earliest dates on record. The orchard disease costs U. S. apple growers millions of dollars annually.

Scientists at the Universities of Delaware and Illinois reported the early development of characteristic leaf blotsches to the Department of Agriculture. If not checked by spraying, the infection spreads to the blossoms and fruit. It can ruin high percentages of an orchard's yield.

A mild winter coupled with exceptionally warm weather in January was blamed for the record appearance of the disease.

Most potential U. S. oil-producing areas are located in 22 states.

Plans For 1950 Fair Are Discussed Here

Approximately 55 persons, representing most of the counties of the Upper Peninsula, attended a dinner meeting sponsored by the U. P. State Fair board last night at the Delta hotel and discussed plans for the 1950 fair at Escanaba.

Attending the meeting were Charles Figy, director of agricultural and George McIntyre, deputy director; Russell Horwood, U. P. supervisor of the MSC extension service and director of the experimental station at Chatham; crops and dairy specialists of the extension service; 4-H county leaders, county agricultural agents, women's home extension leaders, members of the U. P. State Fair staff and members of the board of the U. P. State Fair. The meeting was conducted by John MacInnes of Sault Ste. Marie, chairman of the board.

4-H Program Stressed

Miss Opal Roberson, Marquette, outlined plans for expansion of the women's home extension program at the fair. She recommended greater emphasis upon consumer education programs, a style review and a home maker's day at the fair.

Ben Westrate, Marquette, 4-H leader in the Upper Peninsula, reported that 750 4-H members participated in the fair last year and that a goal has been set at 1,000 individual entries for the future.

He said that quality of 4-H club exhibits will be stressed in succeeding years.

"We are mindful of the excellent cooperation the 4-H club program has received from the U. P. State Fair board," Westrate said. "Every request that we have made for developing facilities and for improving the 4-H program at the fair has been met by the board.

William Lutz, of Chatham, recommended that both agricultural and livestock exhibits at the fair have been improving in recent years.

He suggested that the dairymen's program be moved from Wednesday night of fair week to Tuesday as a convenience for dairymen.

He also suggested the deletion of sheep and wine departments from the premium list. Lutz explained the green pasture program being developed by William Cargi, of the extension staff, and proposed that encouragement be given to this program by the fair board.

Director Figy Speaks

Miss Roberson, Westrate and Lutz were introduced by Horwood, who promised the fullest cooperation by the Michigan State College extension workers to the U. P. State Fair.

Director of Agriculture Charles Figy told of the work of his department in connection with the fair. He said that all food inspection at the fair is handled by his department.

Figy expressed pride in the fact that every county in the Upper Peninsula has been accredited for tuberculosis and Bang's disease control in cattle, and reported that the control program in Michigan actually started in the Upper Peninsula.

He said that many Lower Peninsula counties have heavy infections of these diseases among their cattle.

Deputy director McIntyre explained new regulations for the use of state funds for premium awards at county fairs. Applications must be made at least 90 days prior to the fair dates and complete reports must be submitted within 90 days at the conclusion of the fair, he said. County fairs will receive 40 per cent of their premium awards at the time of application and up to an additional 10 per cent, if funds are available, at the end of the fiscal year.

Next Thursday night the Escanaba barber shop chorus will have a social evening and smelt fry at the Gladstone yacht club, with wives of members as guests. An informal song program under the direction of Sam Ham will be featured. The event at Gladstone is scheduled to start at 9 p. m. and the Escanaba delegation will assemble at the Elks club for the trip.

Lindsay Speaks

He emphasized that the premium awards must be graduated in the first four places. The regulations do not affect the U. P. State Fair, however, as the U. P. fair is operated by a special act of the legislature.

At the conclusion of the program, Secretary-Manager Harold

Flight Service Begins June 1

Weather And Radio Equipment Ordered

Wisconsin Central Airlines will start air service to Escanaba on June 1, unless unforeseen circumstances develop, it has been indicated in a letter to the City of Escanaba.

Higgins reported that the equipment for weather information will arrive in Escanaba on May 17 and that the company's radio equipment will be here the middle of May. The installation of these facilities will permit the beginning of scheduled air flights to Escanaba on June 1.

The Wisconsin Central official requested information regarding progress of plans for lengthening the north-south runway to 3,800 feet and for widening the paved surface to 100 feet, as well as the progress in the removal of flight pattern obstructions in the vicinity of the airport.

The city plans to push the airport improvement project as rapidly as possible when the frost is out of the ground.

The beginning of scheduled air flights to Escanaba this spring will provide the city with both passenger and airmail service to Minneapolis and to Milwaukee and Chicago.

Norway Canning Group Elects

Howard F. Strahl Of Wilson, Director

Howard F. Strahl of Wilson was elected to a two-year term on the board of directors of the Norway Canning association at the annual membership meeting held in Norway Wednesday.

Strahl will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Lewis Morosini of Norway. Wallace Jones of Norway and Charles E. Larson of Powers were named first and second alternates.

For the twelfth consecutive year, Emil Johnson of Vulcan was reelected president of the association. George Nygard of Felch was named vice president, and Mrs. Guido Bonetti of Norway, secretary-treasurer.

Russell E. Howood, superintendent of the Chatham Experimental Farm, spoke on "The Economic Importance of Agriculture in the Upper Peninsula."

Oil Dealers Meet Here On Thursday

Approximately 125 Upper Michigan dealers for the Green Bay division of the Standard Oil company (Indiana) met here last night for a dealer conference program.

The dealers were welcomed by S. F. Armstrong, assistant manager of re-selling from Green Bay, and heard an address on service, courtesy and cleanliness of A. V. Fraser, manager of the Green Bay division.

The major portion of the material was presented in the form of skits portraying the way American motorists wish to be treated at service stations. It was emphasized that service station dealers should be equipped with the facilities and know-how for giving maximum service to the customer.

In addition to Fraser and Armstrong, the following members of the Green Bay staff attended the meeting: W. N. Davenport, sales manager; W. B. Addis, advertising and public relations representative; T. Stephenson, J. Schneider and K. A. Giese, special training representatives; M. Hansen, accessories representative, and D. F. Dineen, station agent.

Toonerville Train Builder Is Dead

Newberry—(P)—Robert Hunter, a pioneer in lumbering in Luce county since 1898, died of a heart attack Wednesday at 81. He was a partner of the late Capt. Joe Beach in operating the Tahquamenon boat service. Later he built the narrow gauge track for the now famous Toonerville Trolley from Soo Junction to the Tahquamenon river.

MAKING BUTTONS—Mrs. Henry Peterson of 317 South Seventh street not only is an ardent button collector, but also makes some beautiful plaster of paris buttons on which she paints state flowers and state birds. Two trays of the buttons she has made will be exhibited in the state button show at Marshall in May. Though she began collecting buttons just three years ago, her collection already totals many thousands. (Escanaba Press Photo)

Mrs. Henry Peterson Combines Button Making With Collecting

How would you like to make a button? Without machines, special coloring apparatus and the like?

Most of us would beg off this project, if only because we knew beforehand what the button would look like when finished.

This busy homemaker, the mother of four sons, has combined "home" button making with button collecting as a special hobby, for the past three years.

She has made a large number of buttons on which she has hand-painted pictures of state flowers and birds, and also has a collection of thousands of buttons.

Two trays of the buttons made by Mrs. Peterson, a graduate of the Chicago institute of art, will be exhibited May 19 and 20 at Marshall, in the state exhibit of the Michigan Button Society. One tray contains about 25 plaster of paris buttons carrying replicas of state flowers, and the other about the same number of hand-made buttons with pictures of state birds on them.

Her collection of foreign buttons includes those made in India, Honolulu, Germany, Austria, England, France, Czechoslovakia, Alaska, Canada, Ireland, Japan, South Africa, Guatemala and Russia.

Chances of getting a Russian button didn't seem too good at first. In responding to Mrs. Peterson's query, Mrs. Atkinson wrote that Russia's button program hadn't progressed as well as Uncle Joe had anticipated. She informed Mrs. Peterson that while in Russia she had bought a few "horrible red" buttons for her winter coat, but had given them to her maid when she returned to New York.

She promised to look her up however, and get Mrs. Peterson a button. Thus Mrs. Peterson has in her collection one of those "horrible red" buttons from Russia. (By the way, not all button collectors are as resourceful as Mrs. Peterson.) Mrs. Atkinson says she received a lot of letters when she returned, but that Mrs. Peterson's was the only one concerning Russia's buttons.

Because she has collected so many, Mrs. Peterson has some difficulty remembering where she obtained them. In most cases however, the history of her collection is as easy for her to recount as it is for her to identify them.

To know a button, by its material, period and country, is no small accomplishment. However, Mrs. Peterson can readily recognize most buttons she sees.

She is Stimulating

The Escanaba collector first became interested in button collecting, after she had watched the work of Mrs. Ray Knutson, Mrs. Michael Farrell and Miss Esther Palmer. In all, Mrs. Peterson says, there are about eight buttons collectors in the city. The hobby, she says, ranks next to a coin and stamp collecting as a national hobby.

"Most button collectors enjoy the intellectual stimulation which results from research on types of buttons, periods and button manufacturers, and but few collect solely for artistic enjoyment," she observes.

Truckers' Counsel Gives Wrong Conception Of U. P. Road Needs

J. T. Hammond of Benton Harbor, general counsel of the Michigan Trucking association, discussing the general road tax situation in Michigan, tossed figures and alleged facts around quite recklessly in an interview at Lansing this week.

Hammond declared that taxpayers in the southern half of the Lower Peninsula are being shortchanged by the statutory distribution of highway funds. He pointed out that the law requires 25% be spent in the Upper Peninsula, 25% in the northern counties of the Lower Peninsula and the remaining 50% in the southern half of the Lower Peninsula.

As a matter of truth, the statutory distribution formula has not been adhered to and the Upper Peninsula for some years has not received anything like 25% of the highway construction funds.

Whether deliberately or not, Hammond also misstated the highway needs in the Upper Peninsula in the following statement:

"If State Highway Commissioner Ziegler wants to allot $20,000,000 to a Detroit project, he has to have $40,000,000. Under the law, which he did not write, he has to find some place to spend $10,000,000 in each of

Baruch's Cold War Proposal Has Merit

HERE'S good reason to approve Bernard M. Baruch's proposal for a "general staff" for peace to stay vigilantly on the job until the cold war is won.

As Baruch sees such a staff, it would deal continuously with the whole range of peace problems. It would serve as a "central point of decision, weighing all the many commitments pressed upon us, guiding the best disposition of our strained resources, determining where we can achieve a decisive breakthrough—and at what effort."

This looks wise, for one thing, because it might help us Americans face the realities of these difficult times. Baruch points that out:

New York Enacts New Sex Crime Statute

MICHIGAN legislators seeking means of more adequately dealing with sex criminals may well study the new law signed this week by Governor Dewey.

The law permits indeterminate sentences for sex criminals of from one day to life. It makes release from prison for such persons contingent upon a finding by competent psychiatrists and psychologists that the sex offenders are no longer a menace to society. Modern scientific treatment for sex deviates also is provided for in the law.

Imposition of the new indeterminate sentence is left to the discretion of the court. The judge can still impose a definite prison term if he so desires.

The New York law permits a sensible approach to the sex crime problem. It recognizes that sex deviates should be removed from society as long as they are a menace to other people, not merely confined to prison for a predetermined period of expiation of a crime. If medical and psychiatric treatment removes the causes of their mental quirks, these people should be permitted to resume a normal life. But the important feature of the law is that they can be retained in custody permanently, if necessary, for the protection of society.

This plainly may mean more than just a wiser channelling of resources into the various cold war theaters, important as that is. To keep pace with Russia may call for heavier sacrifices than we have yet made or shown any inclination to make.

In a conflict that is perhaps more dangerous than any hot war we ever fought, there may be no place for the sort of pleasure, even occasionally luxurious living Americans are now enjoying.

For example, many critics have charged that our defenses may actually be somewhat below the minimum safety mark. Whether or not this is true, it is clear the administration is trying to strike a perilous balance between giving us minimum protection and allowing us to keep on doing very good business as usual.

Naturally a demand for great sacrifices would be politically unpopular. But we're playing with fire if it is political timidity rather than a sound appraisal of realities that dictates our present policies.

A GHQ for peace, set up as Baruch conceives it, would have the power to wage the cold war on a unified, global basis. With that broad outlook, it would be well equipped to know whether we were at any moment playing with fire by wasting our resources or not expending them fully enough in the right ways.

No sensible person wants to saddle our civilian economy with crushing burdens that throttle our peacetime growth and progress. Indeed, if we erred too heavily in that direction we might play right into the Russians' hands. But neither must we endanger the survival of our freedoms by coasting along agreeably while the Communists build up an overpowering advantage over us.

Stretch Drive?
CONGRESS, with three months' work behind it this year, has come to what is generally viewed as its halfway mark. And agreement is unanimous that this session has accomplished virtually nothing.

Of course, the same thing could have been said last season, but the lawmakers put on a burst of speed in the later months and ran off a creditable amount of legislation. Maybe we're in for another belated spurt this time.

If that comes to pass, it'll begin to look as if congress has been influenced too sharply by the pennant-chasing tactics of the Boston Red Sox.

An honest confession is good for the soul but sometimes bad for the lawyers.

All: BIGGER SURPLUSES

(Detroit News)

The farmers are said to be co-operating loyally to the end that the farm price support program shall not lack for prices in need of support.

The Agriculture Department's pre-season survey of planting intentions is now completed. It shows that, given favorable weather, we shall have many more dandy surpluses this year, of everything from potatoes to peanuts. Taxpayers are promised a hilarious time, as their money is used to take these crops off the market and thus assure farmers the handsome prices that will induce them next year to grow still more surpluses.

Somewhere between potatoes and peanuts there is an especially offensive surplus, consisting of the surplus congressmen who go on voting for this nonsense. The taxpayer could afford to pay a pretty penny to get rid of that one.

Parents can at least be thankful that their kids keep out of more trouble than they get into.

An honest confession is good for the soul but sometimes bad for the lawyers.

Tool Borrower

By Gordon Martin

When you go to do a household chore and need your plane and saw, and your workbench holds a pile of junk through which you quickly paw, then you find your tools are missing and you kick up quite a fuss, for the situation's one that any man can rightly cuss. And it's then you stop to ponder, while your angry temper cools, that there oughta be a law against the borrowing of tools.

Now in every neighborhood you find a guy who often asks if you'll let him use your tools to help him do repairing tasks. And at first you gladly loan him any tool he wants to use, and you open up your workshop so's to let him pick and choose. He just wants to use your hammer, he will hasten to explain, but he'd do a better job if he could take along your plane.

Then it isn't long until he claims your saw and brace and bit, for he thinks your tools were purchased for his special benefit. And he never buys a thing himself, not even just a tack, but he gets most every tool you've got and never brings them back. So at last you go and get your tools which nevermore you'll loan, and he's mad because you tell him that he's got to buy his own.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The American embassy in Moscow has cabled that a giant Soviet bureau has been set up to find oil for the Russian war machine. Oil fields in the Russian Caucasus have started to run dry, and the Russian staff is frantically trying to develop new sources. This is one of the most important developments in the cold war because, without oil, the Russian war machine would be paralyzed.

As a result, Molotov has rushed hundreds of Russian geologists to Sinkiang province in Communist China to look for oil, and has ordered urgent priorities for drilling in Kirghizia, in central Asia and on Sakhalin island.

BRITISH DIPLOMACY BOOMERANGS
U. S. Ambassador Douglas in London has cabled the sensational though confidential news that the British may cancel their recognition of the Chinese Communists.

Foreign Minister Bevin, he says, is burned up because three months have passed and the Chinese Communists haven't even bothered to acknowledge Britain's announcement of recognition.

That announcement is now considered one of Britain's worst diplomatic boasters, causing her to lose prestige throughout the world. Furthermore, instead of making it easier to protect Britain's $2,000,000,000 investment in Hong Kong, it has boomeranged. The Chinese Communists have let it be known that, before even accepting British recognition, they want to reopen the Sino-British treaty which gave Hong Kong to Britain. They also demand British support for a seat on the U. N. security council.

CONGRESSMEN PLAY HOOKEY
One measure of a congressman's worth to his constituents is the number of times he sticks around to vote.

The public doesn't realize it, but absentees have now become a congressional racket in congress. Too many congressmen, especially from eastern states, spend their time week-ending instead of earning their $15,000-a-year salaries in Washington.

The practice has become so flagrant that certain big lobbies have arranged to have crucial votes taken on weekends to take advantage of the absence of these "homing pigeons." Recently, for instance, Speaker Sam Rayburn and his friends in the gas lobby carefully scheduled the Kerr gas bill vote on a Friday night because its big-city foes were week-ending in New York and Chicago.

As a result, the natural gas lobby squeezed its bill through the house by a close vote of 176 to 174, thereby sure to raise gas rates to housewives in the same big cities where the congressmen were week-ending.

CAPITAL NEWS CAPSULES
Dulles Maneuvering—Inside fact about the John Foster Dulles appointment as special adviser to Secretary of State Acheson is that Dulles flatly refused the post when first tendered by Acheson. He wanted something more important, so Acheson got Truman reluctantly to agree that Dulles later could be made assistant secretary of state, with a commitment that he would become undersecretary of state if able and popular James Webb should resign.

Old Rooseveltian—Able Undersecretary of Defense Steve Early has arranged with the Pullman company, for whom he used to work, to remain in government for a limited period of time. When he leaves, the new secretary of the army, Frank Pace, will succeed him. Secretary of Defense Johnson wants his old American Legion buddy, Paul Griffith, to get the job, but Griffith is a Republican and doesn't rate with the White House.

Churchill Chafes—Winston Churchill is pressing hard for an early British election, but with no enthusiastic support from the Tories. Churchill knows his political days are numbered, wants to get back into the saddle as soon as possible. However, there is little sentiment in England — Tory or otherwise — for an immediate election, and it probably won't take place until the fall.

Take My Word For It ... Frank Colby
DISLOCATED ACCENTS
Because of the polyglot nature of modern English, and American English especially, it is impossible to lay down hard and fast rules for correctly placing the accent. The absence of accent uniformity in English is the despair of the foreign student of English, and it also is directly responsible for more than a few of our own pronouncing errors.

For example, many speakers stub their tongues on the dislocated accents of words such as these:

Applicable is often accented erroneously on the "plic" syllable. But only the first syllable should be stressed, thus: AP-likuh-BL.

Also, avoid accenting "plic" in explicable. Better say: EX-phi-kuh-BL.

Soap opera heroines, on being pursued by the villain, invariably cry out: "I hate you! You are perfectly des-PICK-able!" It does sound more emphatic that way. But the dictionaries wag their long white beards in disapproval. Again, only the first syllable receives the accent, thus: DESS-pikuh-BL.

However, the companion word, despisable, has precisely the same meaning as despicable, and you may accent the second syllable as explosively as you wish: des-SPICE-uh-BL.

Watch "positively." It should not be accented on the third syllable. Only the first syllable is accented, thus: POZZ-i-tiv-lee.

There is no "ridge" in dirigible. Accent the first syllable, which sounds approximately like "dear." Say: DEAR-i-ji-ble.

Answer: The heart was once supposed to be the seat of the conscious spirit or soul; hence, the intellect; the mind.

Nevada Seeks Indian Lands

Senator McCarran Offers Bill Again

By MARQUIS CHILDS
WASHINGTON — The other day in a closed committee hearing Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada renewed hostilities in a war that he has been prosecuting for 12 years or more. Senators around the table chucked at the re-doubtable McCarran laced into Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman who was in the witness chair.

In five previous Congresses McCarran has tried to get a bill passed which would give to white settlers land claimed by Paiute Indians of the Pyramid Lake Indian reservation. As one of the senator's colleagues remarked:

"It looks like Pat wants to keep the displaced persons out and the Indians off."

McCarran has fought with amazing persistence against liberalization of the displaced persons act. He was defeated last week when the Senate voted, 47-37, to admit more DPS, but he has not given up on those Indians out in Nevada.

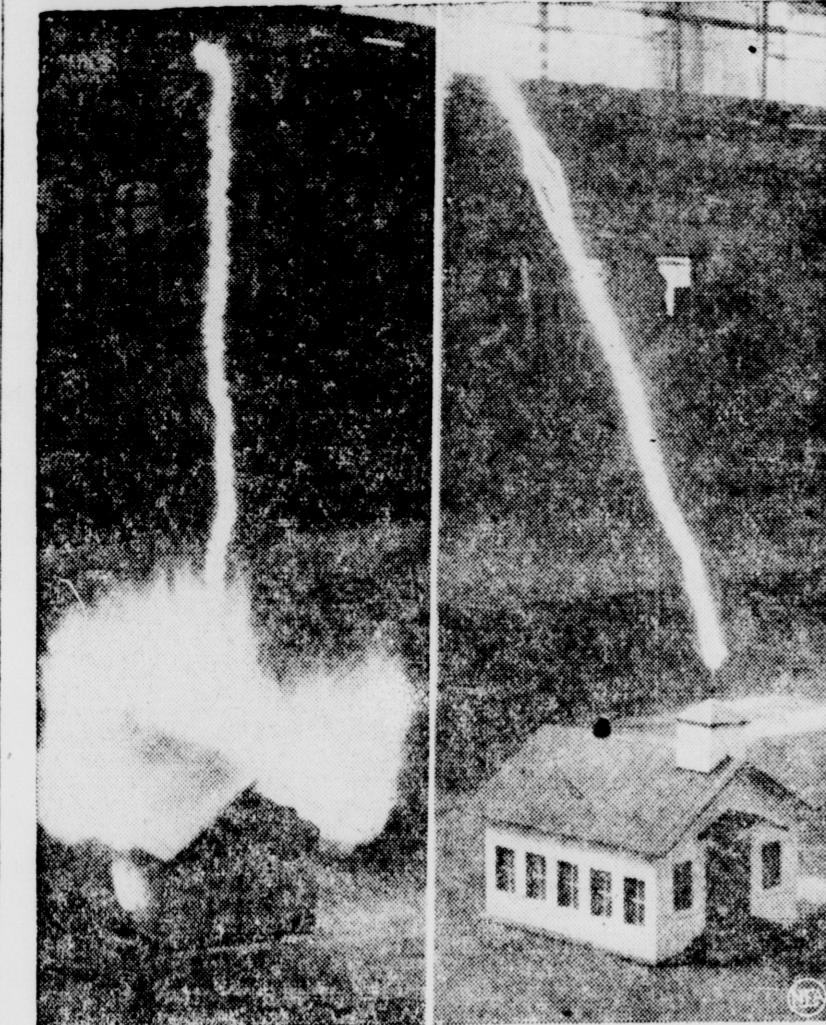

Ikes Blocked McCarran

For years when Harold Ikes was secretary of interior he stood like the Dutch boy with his finger in the hole in the dike resisting McCarran. When Ikes went out and Julius Krug succeeded him, the persistent senator from Nevada thought his opportunity had come.

But Krug took the same stand as Ikes. In a letter written a year ago to Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney of the interior and insular affairs committee Krug explained his opposition to McCarran's perennial bill to give the Indians the white settlers.

Krug pointed to five separate cases in which federal courts had rendered decisions making it clear that the legal rights of the Indians to the lands involved in S. 17 (the McCarran bill) are paramount to the rights of the settlers and that a gross injustice would be perpetrated upon the Indians if they should now be deprived of the lands.

SPARE THE ROD AND SPOIL THE HOUSE—The testing of a new Westinghouse transformer at Sunnyvale, Calif., produced this argument for lightning rods. The model barn and contents were destroyed for lack of protection. The model school, right, was none the worse for wear as a 2,400,000-volt bolt passed through the rod to the ground.

Indians if they should now be deprived of the lands.

"Furthermore," Krug wrote, "the enactment of the bill would infringe the solemn guarantee against the alienation of tribal property without tribal consent contained in the Indian reorganization act of June 18, 1934, and repeated in the constitution and charter granted to the Pyramid Lake Paiute tribe in accordance with the act."

McCarran insists, in spite of these opinions, that the Indians never owned the lands and that they have always belonged to white settlers. He talks about his boyhood in the Pyramid Lake region and his intimate knowledge of land ownership.

Ranchers Want Land One of the claimants is a large ranching and livestock company. The others are prosperous ranchers. They have for years had ill-gal possession of the lands which they have operated in connection with other tracts to which they have clear title.

At McCarran's suggestion, eviction of the white settlers was postponed and they were permitted to lease the lands at issue for a brief period. Because it is difficult or impossible to operate separately the tracts legally owned by the settlers, the interior department came up with the proposal that the government buy these lands and add them to the Indian reservation. But the ranchers demanded prices far in excess of appraised values and the idea was dropped.

Once again McCarran's perennial bill is on the senate calendar. But it is believed to have little chance of passage.

McCarran is up for re-election this year and he is naturally interested in winning the favor of

Big Creatures Passing Out Alaskan Wildlife Is Imperiled

Extinction is stalking new prey in the wildlife world. The fate of the dinosaur, the moa, the great auk, the dodo, and many another giant among bygone beasts and birds is a familiar chapter. Today's list of creatures threatened with extermination is long, and studded with the names of the largest among living species.

Among North American big game, for example, notes the National Geographic Society, only deer can be called abundant, and black bear, elk, and antelope said to be in relatively good position. Moose and caribou have become scarce. Grizzly bears are a rarity. Woodland caribou in the United States can be counted on one's fingers and toes.

Alaska Game Imperiled

The North American bison, or buffalo, of course, is one of the examples where man has successfully reversed the extinction process he started. Bison now number about 4,000 on fenced ranges of a few northwestern states. Estimated at fifty million in the 1850's, bison were prodigiously slaughtered until their number dwindled to fewer than 600 by 1942.

Whales, Rhinos Depleted

Gone from the British Isles since World War II is the great bustard, Europe's largest land bird. Going or gone from haunts in Florida and vicinity is the ivory-billed woodpecker, largest of its clan. Deserting the Bahamas in alarming fashion is the tall, scarlet hued flamingo, whose one United States haven is at Hialeah Park, Miami, Florida.

Whales, vital food source for many Europeans, long have been reduced to scarcity in Northern Hemisphere waters. Blue whales, biggest of all, currently show signs of sharp depletion in Antarctic whaling grounds. A new international treaty shortens the hunting season as a whale conservation measure.

Outsize creatures prevail, too, on a list of vanishing species recently called to international attention by the National Wildlife Federation. They include the orang-outang of Borneo and Sumatra, the great one-horned rhinoceros of India, the Asiatic lion, the African ostrich, the California condor, and the bush elephant.

Comparably big and beautiful is the whooping crane, now engaged in a touch-and-go fight for survival. Just 36—all that remain of a species whose flight darkened

Canada.

Long-life footwear is expected with the use of the new synthetic "cold rubber," which is predicted will double the life of automobile tire treads and already is in use on a number of passenger cars.

President Of MSC In Auto Accident

MARQUETTE, Mich.—John A. Hannah, president of Michigan State college, and a passenger, Thomas H. King, director of public relations for MSC, were uninjured, but the driver of a stalled jeep which Hannah's car crashed into at noon Wednesday was seriously hurt.

The accident occurred on US-41 near Skandia. State police said Hannah, driving down a hill, was unable to stop because of the slippery pavement and his car struck the jeep broadside.

Herbert Selp, 1513 West California street, Chicago, suffered a fractured jaw and fractured ribs and was taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Selph and three passengers, Solem J. Thomas, Merion Chase and Jack Avidon, also of Chicago, were attempting to free the jeep when the crash occurred. All four are deaf mutes.

Both cars were badly damaged. Hannah and King were enroute to Marquette, where they are scheduled to speak at Michigan State college alumni dinner Friday.

Rising Temperatures Forecast Saturday For Chilly Michigan

By the Associated Press

Michiganers kept right on warbling "baby, it's cold outside" today.

They can forget about flowers and spring right on through Saturday. It's going to stay cold.

For the second night in a row April temperature records were lowered last night in many southern state regions. But thermometers didn't get down to the 0-10 level forecast upstate. Instead it was 11 to 25 on the Upper Peninsula. In Lower Michigan the lows ranged from 20 to 25.

About the same was forecast for tonight, but U. S. observers said slowly rising temperatures could be expected Saturday.

Senate Tangled Up In Waterways Bill And Civil Defense

WASHINGTON — (P) — The Senate was tangled today in a maze of debate over the $1,800,000 House-passed waterways authorization bill.

The House still was in Easter recess.

Lawmakers were at odds over a projected study of civil defense and a state department proposal for helping European export efforts by cutting U. S. tariff rates.

Political talk crackled and snapped in the winter-like spring air.

The Senate met an hour earlier than usual. A vote on the administration's Columbia basin amendment to the waterways bill was scheduled tentatively for this afternoon.

Husband Disappears With Baby-Sitter, 14, In Breedsville, Mich.

BREEDSVILLE, Mich.—A young mother, who hired a baby sitter to help care for her three children, asked police today to hunt for her husband—and the baby sitter.

Thirty-three-year-old Henry Bondurk, his wife, Mary said, had run off with the 14-year-old girl while she was on an Easter trip to Chicago.

State Police and Van Buren county authorities declined to reveal the girl's name.

Mrs. Bondurk said she had hired the teen-aged sitter so that she could take an outside job and help support the family. Her truck-driver husband, she told police, allowed her only $5 a week to run the house.

Returning from the trip to Chicago with their three children, Mrs. Bondurk said she saw her husband and the girl sitting in a car in front of their small home. Sighting his family, Bondurk fled and hasn't been seen since, she complained.

Pap Trucker Blamed For $8,000,000 Fire; 5,000 Left Homeless

DALLAS, Tex.—(P)—A youth who left a note in his hotel room saying "I'm going to kill" was captured in a running gun battle last night after seriously wounding three persons.

Detective Captain Will Fritz said the man told him he was Arthur V. Gittings of Bethlehem, Pa., and that he had a social security card bearing that name and a good Bethlehem address.

Police said the note, written on a picture frame, declared: "Tonight, I'm going to kill. Who I don't know. I have communicated with my superior as a deceased individual. I can't help myself."

The wounded were identified as: Guillermo Texeria, of Lima, Peru, a Braniff International Airways employee. He suffered a serious chest wound.

Miss Vera Lee Dorris, 19, of Dallas. She had an abdominal wound.

Kenneth Leon McRight, 25, Dallas. Chest wounds.

Jap Trucker Blamed For $8,000,000 Fire; 5,000 Left Homeless

TOKYO.—(P)—An 18-year-old Japanese truck driver today was charged with responsibility for an $8,000,000 fire in the sea-side resort of Atami, 65 miles southwest of here.

Police said he carelessly dropped a cigarette near a gasoline tank at a waterfront warehouse yesterday.

They estimated the fire, brought under control seven hours later, destroyed 1,600 houses. Five thousand persons were homeless and 500 injured. Most of the business district and 40 large inns were destroyed.

The U. S. Army maintains two undamaged hotels in Atami, but both were undamaged. Atami is a city of 35,000.

Deadlock Unbroken In Chrysler Strike

DETROIT.—(P)—The billion-dollar Chrysler strike moved into its 80th day today after an extraordinary attempt at settlement.

A virtually night-long negotiations session—unprecedented in the walkout—failed to break the stubborn deadlock.

Weary negotiators adjourned at 4 a. m. (EST) without comment. They agreed to meet again at 1 p. m. today.

Although neither management nor the striking CIO United Auto Workers had a word to say, there was some reason to believe an agreement might be in the offing. They agreed to meet again at 1 p. m. today.

Business Rises, But Jobs Drop

Unemployment Now
At 4,321,000

BY STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, D. C. — General gains in production and buying power, reported to Congress for the first quarter of 1950, cheered the economic chart-watchers today.

Yet jobs remained a big question mark. In the view of the president's council of economic advisers, economic expansion has not hit a rate which will keep ahead of creeping unemployment.

The council sent to Congress yesterday its monthly report, "Economic Indicators," covering the first three months of what the council had predicted would be a "good year."

The forecast has been borne out, thus far. National income climbed, after the coal strike, to exceed January's level. Home building set a record.

Consumers' Price Down

Per capita personal income, after allowing for taxes, was at a rate which exceeded even the average of booming 1949. It was estimated at $1,323 for every man, woman and child.

And consumers' prices, for the average city family, were down about 1½ per cent from a year ago.

The nation's output of all goods and services was measured at an annual rate of $253,000,000,000 for the quarter. This was below the rate of a year ago, but the movement was upward, not down.

The council's acting chairman, Leon Keyserling, told a reporter that the council has no reason to revise its January prediction of a good level of prosperity which can last through the year. He added this long-range qualification:

"We are not getting the expansion in industry and investment that we need to absorb the steady increase in the labor force. That is a serious problem."

Unemployment Higher

The report sent to the joint economic committee of Congress is an array of tables, almost bare of comment. Yet the council obviously took little comfort in last month's drop of 551,000 in the ranks of job-seekers. It ascribed the improvement to the normal, "seasonal" pickup in farming and industry.

At the level of 4,321,000 jobless, unemployment now stands higher than at any time last year. Federal economists do not regard the figure itself as alarming in view of the upward trend of business. As Keyserling indicated, it is the prospect of a slow, year-by-year increase that gives concern.

The tapering-off in industry's postwar spurt of investment in new plant and machinery is closely watched therefore, as a guide

Mackinac And Luce Trunklines Rerouted, Effective May 15

LANSING — (P) — The state highway department announced trunkline route changes in the Upper Peninsula which will go into effect May 15.

The department will take over from Mackinac and Luce counties the road from US-2 through Engadine north to M-28, which will be called M-117.

M-48 from west of Garnet north to McLeod's Corners at the junction with M-28 will be returned to Mackinac and Luce counties. The present M-117 from US-2 north to the junction with M-48 will be called M-48 to connect with M-48 toward Trout Lake. It will be returned to Mackinac county when a new M-48 route is constructed from Garnet southwest to US-2 in the vicinity of Naubinway.

From Dewey Corners east for two miles, M-28 provides a connection to present county road 406 running north to Newberry. The county road will become a part of M-117 and be reconstructed from the intersection with M-28 north for two miles, to within one mile of Newberry. When this construction is completed, the present M-49 from Roberts Corners at M-28 north two miles and west one mile will be returned to Luce county. At the same time, M-28A, along McMillan avenue in Newberry and west through Dollarville and south to Dewey's Corners, will also revert to Luce county. The portion in Newberry will revert to that city.

We build pillars of steel in the mud... and we hang a road from them!

Twenty centuries ago a little band of men built some pillars of faith. They built them in the mud of life's sweeping stream, but they pointed them toward heaven. Then they hung a road from their pillars of faith... a road their Master had shown them.

It was a new and different kind of bridge. It carried men from the cold, angry shores of strife and bitterness across to a life of unselfishness and brotherhood. It was more than another religion—it was Christianity!

When a man grows tired of the ugly side of life—when he's ready to see the other side and become a part of it—he need only turn to the Church. That is where the bridge begins.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Reds Are Ready To Turn On Heat In Cold War With Tito; Albania Will Play Part

By LEON DENNEN

NEA Special Correspondent
ROME, Italy — (NEA) — The long-simmering feud between Soviet Russia and Yugoslavia, it is believed here, will boil over this spring.

Italian political circles in close contact with developments in the Stalin-Tito private cold war predict that increased Soviet armed pressure against the Belgrade government may be only a few weeks away.

Where and how this pressure will be applied is the big question mark. Perhaps Stalin will call for armed attacks against Yugoslavia by one or two of Moscow's satellites (probably Romania and/or Albania). Or possibly he will work through increased internal pressure and partisan warfare.

But it is regarded as significant that border clashes between Yugoslavia and the satellite countries, unprecedented in violence and scope, have increased markedly in the past few weeks.

Even more significance is attributed by persons intimately familiar with the Kremlin's methods and policies to Moscow's charge that a recent meeting of American diplomats in Athens was a "criminal plot" designed to set up a new "nest of aggression" in the Balkans.

"The creation of the Athens-Belgrade Axis," the Romanian newspaper Pravda said on March 28, "means nothing less than the inclusion of Yugoslavia in the aggressive North Atlantic Pact, transforming Yugoslavia into a base of American imperialism with all the fateful consequences for the Yugoslav people."

If Yugoslavia is now a "base of American imperialism," how much longer, it is asked here, will Moscow tolerate its existence?

PRESSURE PLAY: Soviet-controlled territory (shaded areas) virtually surround Yugoslavia, which Moscow now calls "a base of American imperialism."

him new diplomatic recognition. Thus, the Albanian refugees report, Premier Hoxha's purge is only a question of time.

The undisputed rulers of Albania, it is said, are the Soviet Minister, Dimitri Chuvakhan, who once served as a diplomat in Washington, and a Major General N. J. Pavlov, who commands a well-trained force of 5000 Russian "technicians" and about 12,000 former Greek Communist guerrillas.

Meanwhile, Tito, who is an ex-pupil of Stalin, is trying desperately to weaken the ranks of the Cominform in Western Europe. A group of his agents, who before his break with the Cominform in close contact with the Italians, are now operating both in Milan and Rome where they seek to split the Italian Communist Party.

That they are achieving some success is perhaps best proven by the fact that the party of Palmiro Togliatti, who was himself recently criticized severely by the Cominform for "weak leadership," has had to expel eight of its functionaries for Titoism. Togliatti also warned the Italian Communists "to intensify vigilance against Titoist agents."

As in France and elsewhere in Western Europe, the Italian Politburo is sharply divided between "extremists" and "moderates."

Latest reports say that, unless wiser heads prevail, the extremists are preparing an attempt to blow up U. S. Atlantic Pact arms scheduled to arrive in Naples sometime this month.

Guiseppe di Vittorio, chief of the Communist-controlled trade union federation which has been steadily losing members, is opposed to further acts of violence and political strikes.

But di Vittorio, too, seems to be on Moscow's purge list.

The first international passenger airport in the United States is said to be one which began operating at Key West, Fla., in 1927.

According to these refugees, Moscow's tiniest "People's Democracy" is a land of silent terror. Premier Enver Hoxha has been stripped of all power and is virtually a prisoner of the Russians. Although a loyal Stalinist and the first Cominform stalwart to attack Tito, Premier Hoxha had studied in western countries and has many ties with the West.

It is reported that last spring he secretly asked Great Britain and the United States to grant

Trees Damaged By Cold Snap

May Be Mistaken For Oak Wilt

WASHINGTON—(SS)—Early spring cold snaps or hungry squirrels may trick you into thinking the deadly wilt disease has struck oak trees on your lawn or farm, the American Forestry Association warns.

Often only a qualified pathologist can tell whether a tree is really doomed. Young foliage may show symptoms similar to those caused by oak wilt, when the real trouble is frost damage, gnawing of branches by squirrels or mice, insect injury or other fungus blights which are not fatal.

The association's journal, American Forests, carries a request to all its members this month to report all suspected cases of oak wilt to the nearest state agricultural experiment station.

Caused by a deadly fungus, Chalara quercina, oak wilt was first identified in 1944. It has now spread mysteriously into six Midwestern states: Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Indiana.

Scientists do not think it is airborne, as was the fast-moving blight which all but wiped out American chestnut trees. They can show oak wilt is spread when roots of adjoining trees grow together underground. But they do not know how it jumps to a new locality.

Whatever its manner of travel, oak wilt can kill a tree within weeks. It is causing pathologists grave concern, reports the Forestry Association.

'Silly' Census Queries Rapped

May Be Basis For New Legislation

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—A lot of the questions being asked by census takers these next few weeks may seem pretty silly. For instance:

"If your house is rented furnished, what would it rent for unfurnished?"

"Did this person do any work at all last week, not counting work around the house?"

"Last year, how much money did his relatives in this household receive from interest, dividends, veterans' allowances, pensions, rents, or other income, aside from earnings?"

For farmers, there are a couple of hundred special questions to fill out, on both sides of a big sheet of paper. They want to know everything about the farmer's life, including how many cantaloupes, cowpeas, tame deerberries and turkeys over four months old he raised.

All these seemingly silly questions are supposed to have a purpose. It may take a year and a half to compile the answers.

By that time a lot of data may be out of date. The country is growing faster than many experts thought possible. Marriage and birth rates are up. Total population will be over 151,000,000. Farm population is declining. There may be 47,000,000 families.

Housing Is An Example

All these things create new problems for Congress. Answers to the census taker's questions may be the basis for new farm, housing, social security, education and other legislation for the next 10 years.

Take housing. All housing legislation proposed or passed since the end of the war has been based on conflicting estimates of supply and demand. Private industry home builders insist they can take care of the situation. Advocates of more public housing insist that the private building industry hasn't taken adequate care of the situation in the past and won't be able to do it in the future.

The 1950 census taker's first housing question is to determine how many families are living in single houses, row houses, apartments, flats, trailers, tents, rented rooms, hotels or other institutions.

The census taker will also have to determine how old housing units are, and how many are dilapidated. He will have to count houses with hot and cold running water, cold water only, outside faucets, hand pumps, wells, bathtubs, showers, outside privies, radios, TV's, iceboxes, kitchen sinks—or no such fixtures at all. Also, how many families have to share such facilities.

Housing units owner-occupied, rented and vacant will be counted. Rentals and sales prices will be asked. And finally, whether the property has a mortgage on it. There will be no snooping on the size of the mortgage—just whether or not there is one.

Aid In Production

All this detailed information, involving some 30 questions, each with from two to five possible answers, ought to give a pretty accurate picture of America's housing situation. It will also be good market data for manufacturers and merchants of house

Geiger Counters Find Oil Pools

Radiation Detectors Are Found Useful

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (SS)—Geiger and other radiation counters may soon be standard equipment for searching out new pools of oil.

Possibility of the use of radiation detectors in hunting oil was discussed here at the meeting of the American Physical Society.

Drs. Clark Goodman, Charles W. Tittle and Henry Faul developed this application while working at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

They found that the penetration of solid materials by neutrons and gamma rays gave an index of the structure and composition of the surrounding cased drill holes. Counters can be used to detect the radiation from formations near these holes.

They also found that when a portable neutron source was lowered into well casings, the neutrons caused gamma rays to be emitted from the surroundings. These rays can likewise be measured to indicate the structure of surrounding formations.

When measurements of the amount of radiation are made at the same time at several points along the axis of a drill hole near a porous formation, they can be used to tell whether the formation contains oil or water, either salt or fresh.

These measurements can also indicate the efficiency of other techniques now used to locate oil reservoirs. This use of radiation detectors will increase our knowledge of conditions under the earth's surface, they state.

It's Still A Long, Hard Way From DP Camp To U. S. A.

Though Congress is in the process of shaping a somewhat liberalized Displaced Persons program, the DPs now in Europe face long, intensive investigation before they can come to this country. Some 140,000 persons have already gone through the process described below. Under the new bill, the ceiling on the number of DPs permitted to enter the United States would be raised from the present 205,000 to 359,000.

... until job and home in the U. S. are "assured."

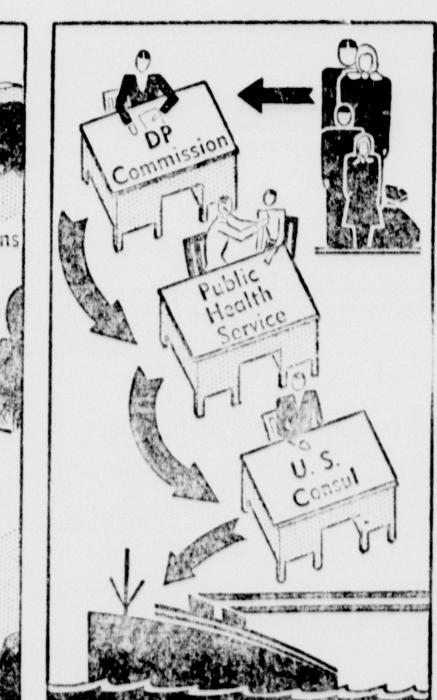

Documentation begins.

Displaced Persons—or DPs—entering the United States must face the most rigid examinations from the time they make application for entry until they finally complete the journey to this land of hope—the U. S. A. First, there must exist in this country "assurance" of a specific job for the breadwinner, and a vacant house for the family. Finding jobs and homes for DPs is the work of many religious and social welfare agencies. While the DP family anxiously waits in the camp or assembly center in Europe, the Army Counter-Intelligence Commission begins to document its cases. Once the "assurance" of home and job in U. S. is obtained, the International Refugee Organization gives its certificate that this family is homeless under its care. The DP Commission then forwards the case to the U. S. Army Counter-Intelligence Corps, the FBI in Washington and other intelligence sources for security checks.

CIC makes searching investigations, then turns case over . . .

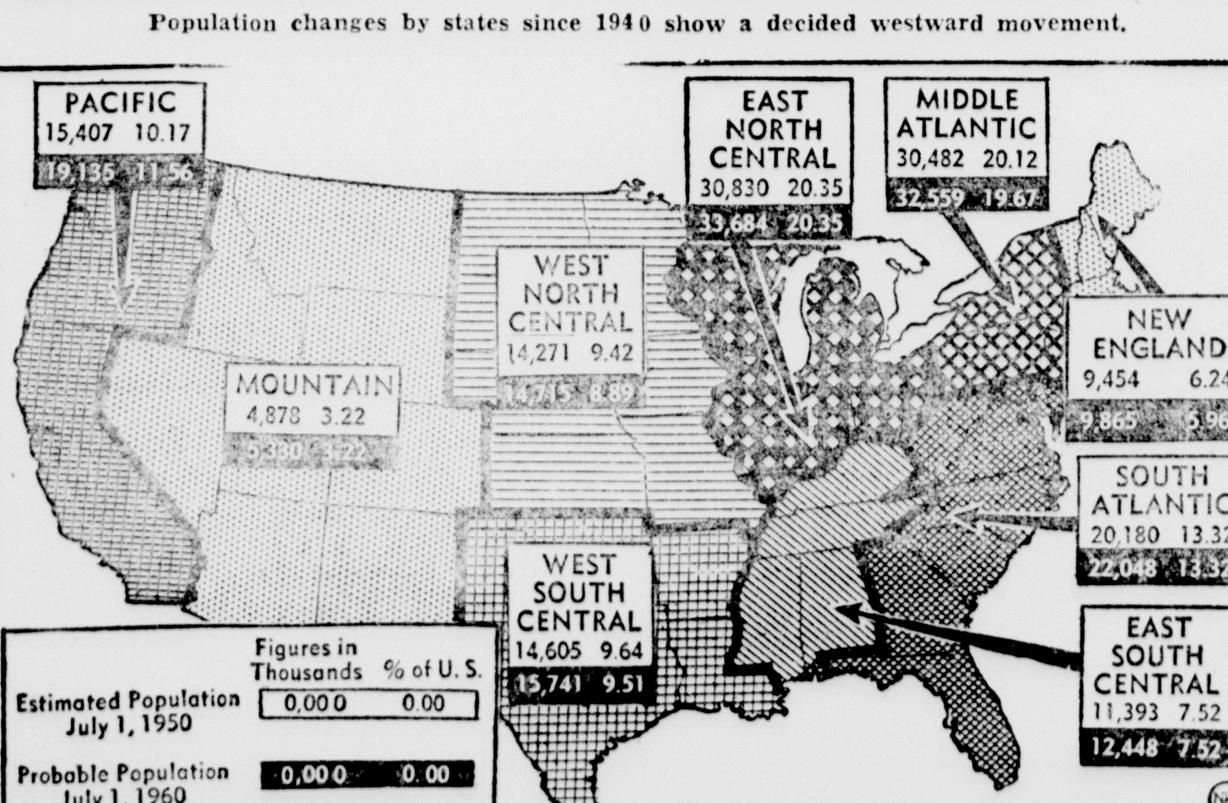

Just one more hurdle.

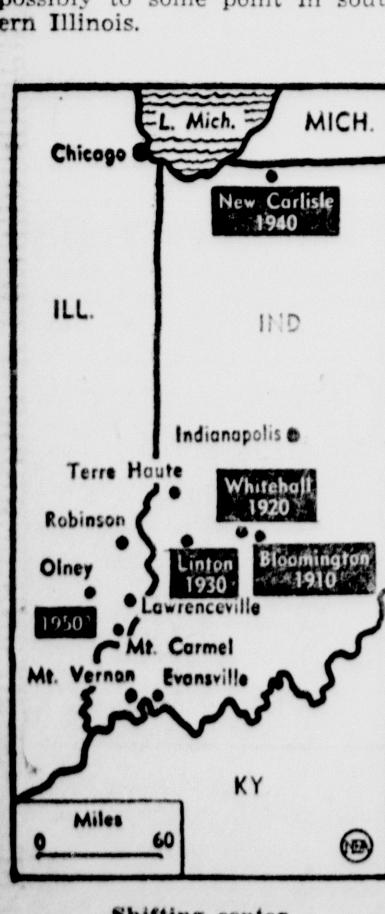

DP Act. Then all individuals are examined by the U. S. Public Health Service, following which the U. S. consul reviews the case and decides on admissibility of the family. After passing all these hurdles, the family may travel to this country. One final barrier remains—the U. S. Immigration and Naturalization Inspector—before the DP family is allowed to proceed to its new home, new job and new life in the United States.

Population changes by states since 1940 show a decided westward movement.

How the regional breakdown of population looks now—and may look in 1960.

Why Business Flops Occur

Four Reasons Are Listed By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
NEW YORK CITY—Like it or not, men and women have a little business of their own. If you can keep out of debt, it gives security and health. You have no fear of being "fired" or laid off on account of mistakes of the management. If your little business turns out not to be good, it then will be your fault, and not your employer's fault. You know that some of your competitors always do well.

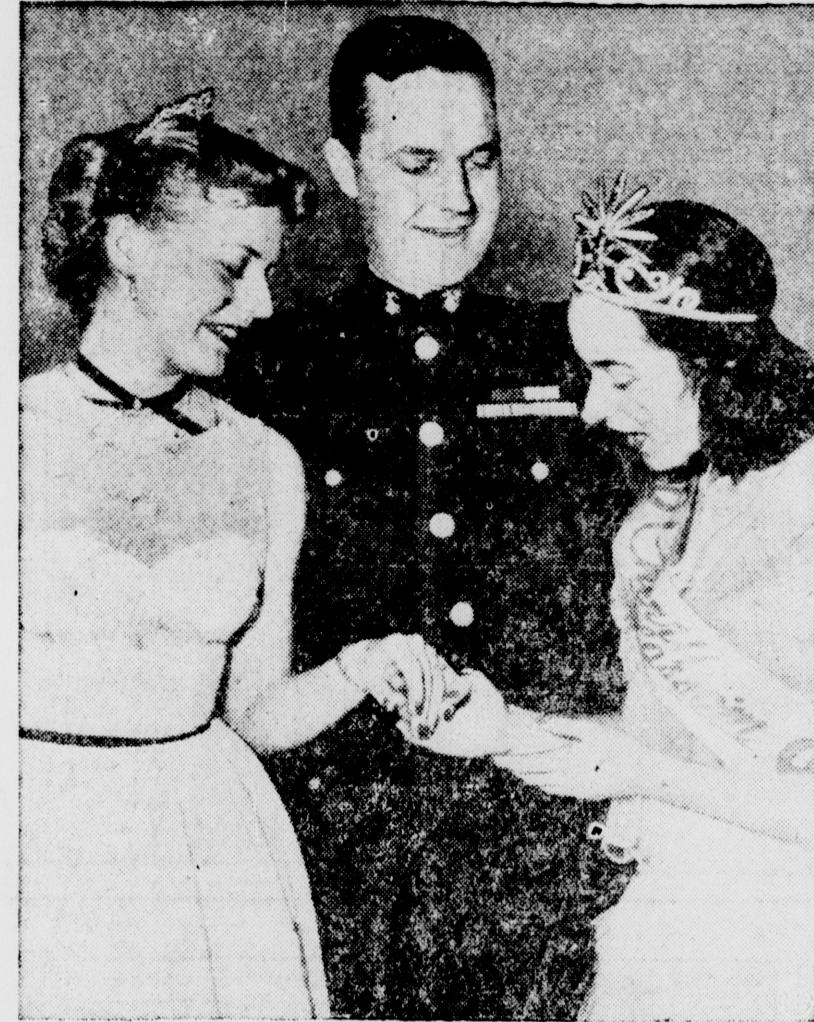

Whether or not this is the time for a young man to leave a good job and go into business for himself, is debatable. The Good Book says there is a time for everything (Read Ecclesiastes 3:1 to 8), which includes a time to buy and a time to sell. God gives us a brain to use. Let us not try to buck His law of Supply and Demand.

This does not mean that we should not push forward. We all should help the world's great problem of how to provide the needs of all in the midst of plenty. So long as any able person willing to work is unemployed while the government is dumping potatoes into the sea, there should be opportunities for shopkeepers and salesmen to bring these loose ends together. This is the kind of "socialism" and "planned economy" in which everyone should believe.

What Statistics Teach

To perform the above service requires character, brains, industry and some capital. Statistics indicate that a large number of those who have gone into business for themselves since World War II must have lacked one or more of these requirements. I say this because 60,000 fewer firms are operating today than a year ago. It is estimated that today there are 200,000 fewer concerns—mostly among the small retailers, service operators, etc.—than in 1946. That this is true, in spite of the increased population and the fact that there is more money about than ever before, indicates something is wrong.

The above is not only a disappointment to nearly a million people, including employees but to the owners of a large number of vacant stores, unused plants, idle trucks; all of which are the result of these failures. Those who have been forced out of business are, moreover, both disappointed, and perhaps bitter. They claim the America should not permit such results in the world's best country.

Failures On Increase

Every month my statistical experts compile for me comparative figures on over thirty basic business barometers. In my forty years of studying business conditions have always said the most significant figure is that for business failures. Heretofore, a very low failure figure has indicated excellent present business conditions; but such figures usually forecast that business troubles are coming.

With double the national income failures have during the past ten years actually been less than before 1940. But at last we see a change for the worse. The greatest increase in bankruptcies is in the retail store field where there has been an increase in failures of 12 per cent. In the case of manufacturing this figure is 9.4 per cent; while in mining, farming, etc., there are 5.4 per cent more failures. Although the failures in the retail field show the greatest increase, yet enough new

What Statistics Show

As a result of all the above 45 per cent fewer new concerns were incorporated in 1949 than in 1946. The number of independent concerns are now about 3,900,000 compared with nearly 4,000,000 in 1948. Yet, there now remain about 18 per cent more concerns in business than in 1939. The present failures average about 200 a week—compared with 100 a week in 1948. Further details will be sent freely on request by the world famous authorities, Dun & Bradstreet in New York City.

There is one cheering feature to these figures. The bankruptcies were not all among young G. I.'s. In fact, 70 per cent of them were of old concerns which had been dying of dry rot for many years. With age comes poor health and a loss of energy, which the older ones lack. This is worth more than capital or customers. Hence, no young people should be disheartened by the above figures on failures. But I do say that if you now have a

Capra Crows Over Crowd In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—(P)—Did you ever have to make a rooster crow? That task confronted director Frank Capra during the production of the new Bing Crosby film, "Riding High." In the film Bing owns a racehorse which won't run unless his mascot rooster crows. Skeeter a good-looking bantam rooster, entered the scene. All director Capra had to do was make Skeeter crow on cue.

Capra produced a mirror—hoping to get Skeeter to open up by letting him fight his image. Skeeter ran to a dark corner. Capra said, "Let's get him a hen. He's got to be jealous." The hen chased Skeeter all over the stage.

Then a record-player on the set played rooster crows. Skeeter appeared bored. An "animal-man" covered Skeeter's cage with a black cloth. Then he played a record of rooster crowing in the distance. Off came the black cover and Skeeter greeted "the dawn" with a crow!

Want A New Car? Better Order Now

By DAVID J. WILKIE
(Associated Press Automotive Writer)

DETROIT — (P) — If you want a new car this summer you'd be wise to order it now.

The car industry has been producing at a rate greater than any heretofore reached, but it isn't piling up much of a field stock. Indications are retailers of the more popular makes will not have a sizable surplus on hand June 1. That's when retail demand should be at its peak.

And there is every indication deliveries of many makes will exceed factory output over the next six weeks.

Smaller Models Awaited

A substantial number of 1950 model cars built late last year were carried over into the present year. That explains how some retailers have been able to deliver more cars so far this year than rolled off the assembly lines. Some sources say the carry-over amounted to half a million units.

Along with a possible shortage of certain makes of new cars prices probably will go up for late model used vehicles. On the basis of prices paid at auction sales in various sections of the country, automotive news reports used car prices are up sharply over what they were in February of this year.

These prices have been advancing steadily for nine consecutive weeks, the trade paper reports.

There has been considerable speculation as to what effect the introduction of new smaller cars will have on the used car market. Probably this will not be determined until after seasonal factors start used car prices down again.

Nash is going to introduce its new smaller Rambler car this week, but it will be a convertible model. The conventional type sedan model is not due until around the end of the year. At about that time Willys-Overland expects to have its smaller sedan in production.

Meanwhile Kaiser - Frazer should get its 100-inch wheelbase model on the assembly lines in June. Present guesses are it will be well into July before the retail deliveries can be made.

Around that time of year more cars usually are offered to the used car dealers than they normally want to buy.

Against this, however, is the conviction of many industry experts that the latter half of this year will see demand just about as heavy as it was during the same period last year. If that demand materializes, the would-be new car buyer may have to give up hopes of getting a big trade-in allowance for his year-old car.

Trade-In Values Drop

While prices at used car lots and auctions have been advancing slowly, trade-in allowances haven't been too attractive, excepting where the less popular makes of vehicles are involved.

It isn't uncommon for the owner of a year-old vehicle to be offered $1,000 or less than he paid for it a year or so ago.

This is particularly true of vehicles with a $2,500 to $3,000 list price. Most year-old cars have been driven less than 10,000 miles and many motorists figure the depreciation is too great.

But all this could be changed on short notice if the factory owner should shoot ahead of new car demand after mid-year.

Birth Records Are Made Confidential

CHICAGO — (P) — A growing number of states are putting the "confidential" label on birth records. The aim is to protect children who are illegitimate or adopted.

Beverly Fazer
Is The Bride Of James Farrell

Spring flowers decorated the altars of St. Patrick's church yesterday for the wedding of Miss Beverly Fazer, daughter of the Theodore Fazers of Spalding and James Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell of 329 South 18th street, Escanaba.

The vows were spoken before Father Jerome Larsen, who was celebrant of the wedding mass. Don Belanger, soloist of the choir, sang "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus" and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother."

The bridal attendants were Miss Marvel Fazer, sister of the bride, and William Farrell.

The bride wore a powder blue suit with pearl pink accessories and her flowers were pink and white snapdragons and sweetpeas. Marvel wore a navy blue suit and steel grey accessories and white iris formed her corsage.

Mrs. Fazer selected a black crepe ensemble for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Farrell wore a navy print. Both had corsages of red roses.

A wedding breakfast for 24 guests was served at the Fazer home. The couple will live in Escanaba at 329 South 18th street in Escanaba after their return from their wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of Powers-Spalding high school and was valedictorian of her class. Mr. Farrell is an Escanaba high school graduate.

The bride's gown was styled with a fitted bodice with a yoke of net outlined by Chantilly lace ruffling, long pointed sleeves and a full skirt which formed a train. Her fingertip length veil of illusion was caught to a coronet of seed pearls in floral design. Her jewelry was a double strand of pearls, the bridegroom's gift, and she carried her mother's prayer book on the cover of which was a white orchid with lilies of the valley and stephanotis, and white satin ribbon markers.

Identical Gowns

Preceding her to the altar where she was given in marriage by her father were her sister, Dorothy, who was maid of honor and Mrs. Don Guindon and Mrs. Robert Jensen, bridesmaids. Miss Groos was in orchid, Mrs. Guindon in aqua and Mrs. Jensen in yellow. Their taffeta gowns were identical with drop shoulder necklines, short puffed sleeves and hoop skirts caught up with tiny flower clusters. They carried cascade bouquets of deep pink and white carnations and roses and wore matching flowers in their hair.

Mr. Davis' best man was his brother, Thomas. Ushers were Robert Groos and Jack LaPine.

Mrs. Groos wore a deep brown ensemble for her daughter's wedding and Mrs. Davis wore gray. Lavendar orchids formed the mothers' corsages.

Mrs. Elmer Bonifas and Mrs. Eldridge Baker were soloists of St. Joseph's choir and Mrs. Ray Olson sang "Ave Maria" at the offertory. The traditional processional and recessional were played by Miss Eva Cossette.

Breakfast and Reception

A wedding breakfast and a reception at the Dells followed the ceremony. Centering the bridal table was a four tiered wedding cake with an arrangement of spring flowers and tapers. Presiding during the reception were Mrs. Ernest Saunders, Mrs. Michael LaPine and Miss Alyce Holmgren.

The newlyweds upon their return from their wedding trip will live in Gladstone at 207 South 9th

SEEING DOUBLE — Willard and Millard Edwards, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Edwards, Wilson street, are new among the Daily Press' staff of carrier boys, but they have already become one of the city's familiar figures. The boys not only look alike, but their actions, mannerisms and expressed thoughts are similar.

Mrs. Edwards says that she has no trouble in telling which is Willard and which is Millard, but Mr. Edwards confesses that when taken by surprise, he's stumped for the moment. Their teacher separates them through seat assignments, but has to give up when they are in a crowd.

The boys attend Central school, are fourteen years old and are in the seventh grade. They were recently confirmed at the Zion Lutheran church. Their pastor, the Rev. G. A. Herbert, always on the alert for ways and means of enhancing his services, has been using the twins as altar boys. The uniformity with which they go through their duties of lighting and extinguishing the candles could not have been improved upon if they had seriously practiced it.

Rev. Herbert states that in the four years he has had the boys in his confirmation class he hasn't yet learned to distinguish between the two.

Some days they come to the Press office with their golashes open and the visors of their caps turned down, but never is there a difference in the two.

Yes, there is one mark of distinction in each of them — Millard wears a green cap and Willard wears a blue one. (Photo by Vern Lindereth)

Creten Named Captain Of 1950-51 Gladstone Team At Cage 'Bust'

Keil Feted As Top Coach

McCoy Warns About Overemphasis

GLADSTONE—Phil Creten, towering center of Gladstone high school's Upper Peninsula class C basketball champions, will captain the Braves next year.

He was named captain-elect by his mates and announcement was made at the annual Gladstone Lions club recognition banquet last night.

The banquet, attended by more than 200 persons—including delegations from Rapid River, Rock and Gladstone—was held in the high school gym.

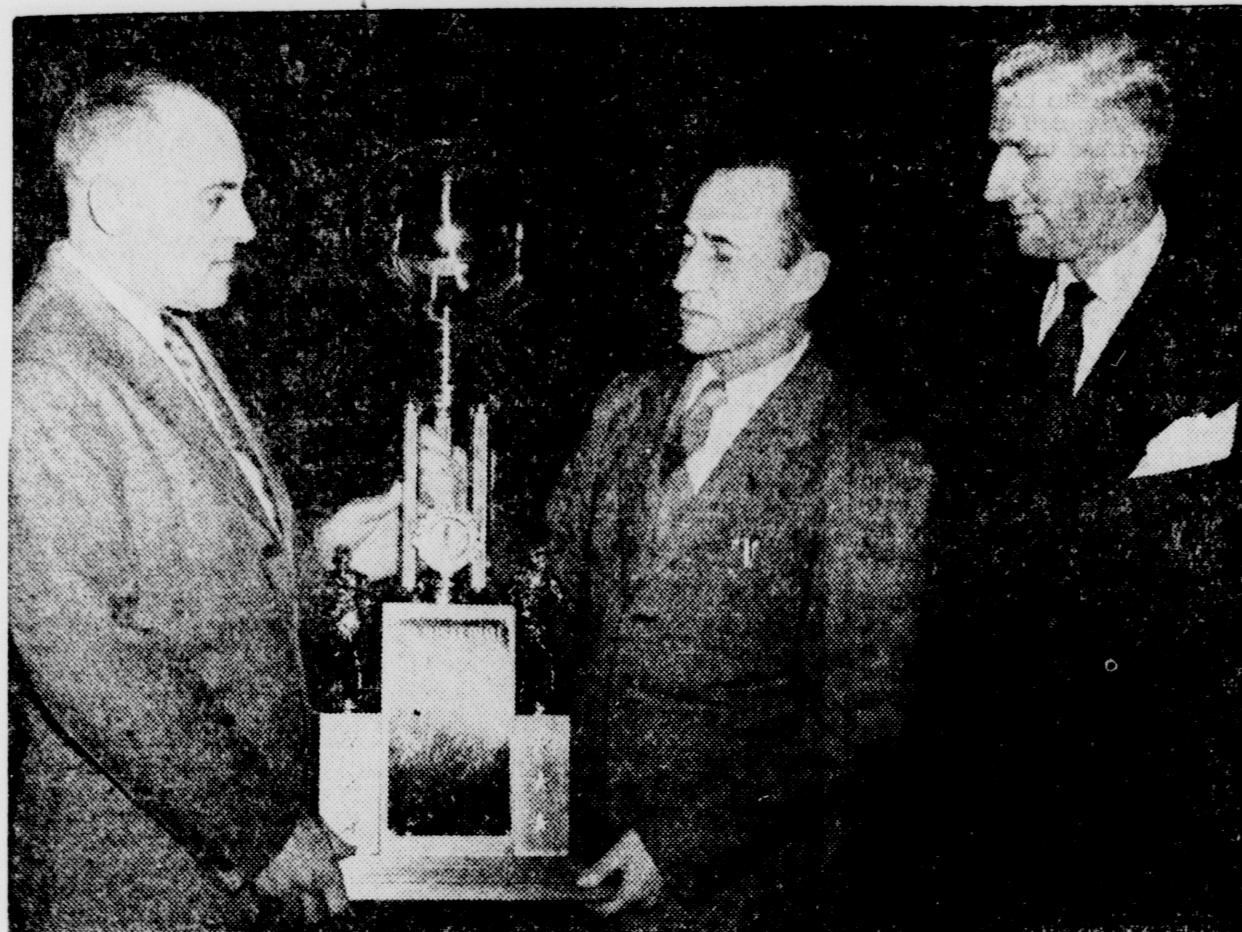

Eldon R. Keil, coach of the Gladstone team which was nosed out in the state semi-finals by East Grand Rapids, which went on to win the title easily the next night, was presented with the club's huge trophy emblematic of the "Upper Peninsula coach of the year." He was named in a poll of Upper Peninsula sports writers and radio announcers.

Lauds Co-operation

Keil paid high tribute to his players, fans and school administration. He modestly accepted the plaudits of the speakers, asserting he knew the coach had little control over winning ball games because there are too many other factors involved.

He introduced his varsity players and awarded them letters. Besides Creten, they are Capt. Billy Rajala, Larry LaPlant, Jim Schram, Tich Swenson, Jim LaLande, Dick Stade, John Syverson, Lee Young and Joe Sutter.

Keil To Talk At Meeting Of Coaches

CRYSTAL FALLS—Coach Eldon R. Keil, whose Gladstone cagers won the class C Upper Peninsula basketball championship, will be one of the speakers at the spring meeting of the Upper Peninsula Coaches' association here April 21 and 22.

Announcement was made by Jack Kraemer of Ironwood, president of the association.

Keil will speak at a Saturday morning meeting along with C. C. Watson, coach of the state class B championship Ishpeming crew; Karl Parker, coach of Brimley's state class D champions, and Gary Gollacker, coach of Alpha's state class E champions.

Bud Jorgenson, trainer for the Green Bay Packers, will conduct a clinic on taping and first aid at the Friday night meeting. He will be followed by a football discussion by Coach Roman C. Yatchak of Wakefield, and a forum on football rules changes.

Following the morning talks by Keil, Watson, Parker and Gollacker, there will be a discussion on basketball rules changes by Coach Eddie Chambers of Crystal Falls.

A noon luncheon at the Crystal Inn will be followed by discussions on track by Coach Ken Radick of Menominee, on tennis by F. W. Duffin of Wakefield, on golf by Gib Lohke of Menominee and on baseball by Kraemer.

McCoy wound up his "down-to-earth" talk with the warning that "if our athletic problem is not brought in bounds soon, the entire field of intercollegiate athletics is doomed."

Myron (Mike) Goodman, president of the Gladstone Lions club, was toastmaster.

Who's Wearing Pants Now?

Family Life Has Changed, Says Ruark

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—A suburb father I know is more than a trifle upset about the actions of his heir, a sturdy young man in the prime of his childhood. It seems that junior got involved with some female companions the other day and after judicious argument, it was decided that they would play the ancient, honorable game of house.

This, as you know, calls for a mama and a papa and children, generally in the shape of dolls, harassed kittens, or resigned dogs. Papa comes home tired from the office, to be greeted by pipe and slippers and dinner by mama. General domesticity ensues, until the game of house breaks up in an argument just like the grownfolks play it.

Well, according to my informant, his young man would only consent to play on his own terms. He wanted to be the mama. He held out to play the part of mama. His playmate argued that mamas were girls and papas were boys.

"I don't care," the young said stoutly. "Mama is the boss in our house, and I want to be boss or I won't play."

Reversal of Authority

This has been bothering the boy's father rather badly. He is wondering, now, if such a complete reversal of domestic authority has occurred that it is even apparent to the babes, and what sort of world we will have if all little boys grow up wanting to be mama? He feels this is a reflection on husbands as a whole.

So I was interested to read the grislier details of the latest Hollywood disenchantment, the latest of a long list of severings between Miss Bette Davis and her surly spouse, William Sherry, a rassler turned arty painter.

Mr. Sherry was aggrieved. He said he stayed home all day long in those dull old houses, waiting for Bette to come back from the studio. He said he did the housework. He said he pressed her frock. He said he brought her her slippers. He ached and he cleaned. And then he fed her a fine dinner, cooked with his own dainty little hands.

He said Bette was often grouchy after a hard day with the kliegs, and was taciturn. And you know what? Sometimes she doesn't even kiss him!

"I am a man who needs a lot of affection," moans Mr. Sherry. "And sometimes I don't even get one little peck on the cheek from her."

Times Have Changed

Something is getting terribly fouled up here. Mr. Sherry has taken over the plaint—the age-old wail—of the female side of frazzling matrimony.

"Judge," they used to say, "I slave for that man all day long. I cook. I wash. I clean. I try to make a nice home for him. I worry about the children. I haven't had a new dress for a year. Then he comes home at night, sticks his head in a paper, and goes to sleep on the sofa right after dinner. I haven't been to a movie since Christmas."

Then, if the pressure of dissatisfaction grew too strong, and divorce was decided as the only solution, the gentleman nearly always packed a bag and went off to his club, or to a hotel, or to his family or moved in with a friend. The soured mate remained in their bower until alimony was settled and a final statement drawn.

Not Mr. Sherry. The latest bulletin had Bette moving to a hotel, while Mr. Sherry occupied both her houses. Who gets custody of the child I am sure I don't know, but I would imagine that the baby's father will retain the tot. I have no great sympathy for Miss Ingrid Bergman, but I thought that her outraged husband's tenacity in hanging onto the property and the money that his erring wife had piled up was rather less manly than if he had beat up Mr. Rossellini.

But I must be out of touch. Evidently things are changing too swiftly for my blurred eye, and from now on all little boys will want to play mama when a game of house is in order. It is probably the only way they will get to wear the pants.

WANTS NO 'WELFARE WAMPUM'—Chief Katchongva of the Hopi Pueblo of Hotevilla, Ariz., showed Congress something new in the art of lobbying. In Washington to protest against the hydrogen bomb, the chief took time out to tell Congress his people want no part of the federal relief money already approved by the House. The Hopis, he said, are a proud people who prefer to make their own way without help from anyone except their own gods.

Michigan Labor Unions Warn Of Fake Solicitors

Businessmen and residents of Michigan are warned by Robert P. Scott, secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Federation of Labor, against contributing to any individuals or persons representing themselves as spokesmen of the American Federation of Labor who are raising an educational fund to combat Red influence within the labor movement.

Reports have been received by the Michigan Federation of Labor that persons are being contacted by representatives of a New York organization known as the Trade Union Courier, requesting contributions to such a fund. So far solicitors have given the names of R. Picard and Mr. Sorell. Contacts have been made by long distance phone from New York, and other approaches may be used.

Mr. Scott stated that such solicitation was not authorized and is being made without the sanction of either the AFL or the Michigan Federation of Labor. He therefore urges Michigan residents against giving any support to this unauthorized promotion scheme.

James Doran, president of the Escanaba Trades Labor Council, also issued a warning earlier this week against the solicitation scheme.

Ziegler Tells Of Plans At Grand Marais

GRAND MARAIS—Planned improvements on M-77 including five miles of blacktop and a new bridge between Seney and Grand Marais will begin this year, Charles Ziegler, Michigan state highway commissioner assured the executive board and other members of the Grand Marais Chamber of Commerce at meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Kozy Korner.

The new bridge four miles north of Seney will replace one of the last one-way bridges on state highways in Michigan.

Mrs. Ziegler discussed the necessity for new and improved roads in Upper Michigan and also stated that the Straits bridge is a problem of the future and that so far there has been no direct action on the subject.

Mr. Ziegler went on to Munising from here. He plans to return to Grand Marais during the summer season to make further study of the road situation.
